SFC DESIGNINGreen Leaders suggest:

KNOW WHAT YOUR FURNITURE IS MADE OF.
Know where your furniture is coming from.

KNOW YOU ARE DOING YOUR PART TO SUSTAIN A HEALTHY FUTURE.

It is easy and efficient to source custom furniture locally. This allows you to know exactly who is making the furniture, what they use, what the warehouse conditions are, and reduce gas and carbon emissions. — Lori Dennis

Today, quality is much more than just the obvious: it is a question of materials, sourcing and practices. It is my job to ensure my clients get the best, safest and most globally conscious products to ensure a bright and healthy future. — Dann Foley

I ask, “What’s it made of?” because we know that avoiding harmful and unnecessary chemicals keeps families healthier. — Kathy Ireland

We've all been too careless with the beauty of our God-given planet. We must protect, honor and live with design that is gracefully green. — Thom Filicia

In this day and age, how can we live without considering sustainability? There is no alternative. — Vladimir Kagan

It is my job as a designer to offer clients stylish pieces that are manufactured in a healthy way. — Libby Langdon

I try to get to know the manufacturers...where they are making the furniture and what they’re using to fabricate. Being aware is the best tool in making environmentally conscious decisions. — Barry Dixon

Why do we spend so much time researching things like organic meat, yet hesitate to take the same time to find out about the origin of a seat? — Robin Wilson

I always try to source furniture manufactured close to home, to decrease the cost of shipping borne by the environment as well as by the customer. — Monica Pedersen
